1. The National Bureau acts as a branch of the International Arbitration Court under intergovernmental international organizations.

2. The National Bureau is guided by the United Nations Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards (New York, 10 June 1958), European Convention on International Commercial Arbitration (Geneva, April 21, 1961), the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (signed in Rome on 04.11.1950), the IAC Regulations and other IAC internal rules and statutes, this Statute as well as other international acts.

3. The National Bureau can receive complaints from either any individual or any group of individuals, or any legal entity, including but not limited to any non-governmental organization.

4. The National Bureau does not consider any individual complaint filed in accordance with article 9 of the IAC Regulations and article 34 of the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (signed in Rome on 04.11.1950), if:

a) it is anonymous; or

b) it is essentially the same as the one already considered by the National Bureau, or is the subject of another international investigation procedure or settlement, and if it does not contain any new relevant facts.

5. The National Bureau rejects any submitted complaint which it deems inadmissible in accordance with the said Rome Convention of 1950. This can be done at any stage of the proceedings.

6. The National Bureau can only consider a case after all internal legal means have been exhausted, as provided by generally recognized norms of international law, and within six months from the date of the final decision on the case issued by national bodies.

The decisions of the National Bureau are justified and comply with the norms of international law and the law of the host country.

7. Disputes shall be resolved by a sole arbitrator based on documents provided by the Parties within a two months period from the day of receiving the claim.

8. The head of the National Bureau is obliged to send a Ruling to the Chairman of the International Arbitration Court under intergovernmental international organizations, in case of the following circumstances:

(a) the applicant no longer intends to seek consideration of their complaint; or

(b) the dispute was settled; or

(c) any other reason established by the Court if further consideration of the complaint is unjustified.
